FEATURING

Rachel Cruze

John-Mark Young, CFP®
President & Co-Chief Investment Officer

Tim Hilterman, CFP®
Chief Financial Planning Officer

We're thrilled to welcome Rachel Cruze of Ramsey Solutions! Rachel is a #1 New York Times bestselling author, financial expert, and host of The Rachel Cruze Show. Known for making money conversations practical, relatable, and empowering, Rachel brings a fresh perspective on breaking free from comparison, finding financial peace, and discovering true contentment.

Register & join us for this live online event!

Scan the QR code or find details and registration info @ WhitakerWealth.com

Wednesday Sept. 30, 2026

Time 5:15 EST

Join special guest Rachel Cruze of Ramsey Solutions for an engaging and honest conversation with John-Mark Young, CFP® and Tim Hilterman, CFP® as they explore the powerful connection between money, comparison, gratitude, and contentment.

Inspired by the themes of Rachel's book, Love Your Life, Not Theirs, this conversation will go beyond financial numbers to explore what it really means to build a life you love—without constantly measuring it against someone else's. Come ready for an honest, encouraging conversation that may change the way you think about money, success, and what it means to live a life you love.

COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

Don Walton Insurance

health markets

127 E Liberty St • Ste 260 • Wooster, OH
DonWaltonInsurance.com • (330) 439-4111

For years, Don Walton built his life around the road. As a truck driver, he worked hard to provide for his young family. It was honest work and it gave them what they needed. Over time, the miles began to take something from him that no paycheck could replace: time. While Don was out driving, his kids were growing up. Providing mattered deeply to him. Being present mattered, too. Somewhere along the way, he realized he needed a different future — one where he could still work hard and take care of his family, but have more control in the life he was building.

That realization came into focus during a trip to Alaska. Standing near the Harding Icefield, surrounded by a landscape larger and more powerful than anything he saw before, Don had a moment of clarity. He explains, "It was the kind of moment that stays with a person. Looking out across the ice and mountains, I knew that if I wanted a different life, I couldn't wait for it to happen to me. I needed to take control and build something of my own."

A hike in Alaska sparked Don's 'eureka' moment; prompting him to go into business for himself.

When Don came home, he got to work. He completed his associate degree in risk management and earned the licenses he needed to enter the insurance industry. The early days were not easy. Starting a business rarely is. There were long hours, uncertainty, and plenty of lean moments. At times, Don and Alyssa were rolling coins just to keep moving forward, believing that their sacrifices would be worth it. Alyssa eventually left her career in the school system to join him in the business. They pushed forward with a simple philosophy: take care of people like neighbors, not numbers.

For Don, health insurance was never a product to sell. It was personal. When he had gone looking for coverage for his own family, he experienced firsthand how confusing and overwhelming the process could be. There were endless options, unfamiliar terms, and the constant question of whom to trust. If it felt that difficult for him, he knew it had to be a challenge for others.

That experience not only brought Don into the industry, but also shaped the way he approaches his work. He aims to be a guide, advocate, and steady voice in a process that can often feel stressful. He listens to a client's needs, explains their options clearly, and helps them make confident decisions about something that affects their health, finances, and future. He explains his tactic, "my clients are real people living lives, not just checking boxes. I don't consider myself a salesman. I'm someone that finds a solution." Clients do not spend any extra cost when shopping for insurance through Don. He's truly a trusted resource for the community. As clients referred friends, families, and neighbors, the business grew. People who had once felt overwhelmed by the process found someone local they could call, sit down with, and trust.

That trust means everything to Don. He knows people come to him during important moments. Sometimes they are retiring and trying to understand Medicare. Others are self-employed and need coverage for their family. Some are running a business and want to do right by their employees. Some are facing health concerns and need to know their doctors, prescriptions, and care are protected. Don understands these decisions carry real weight, and he does not take that responsibility lightly.

As the business has grown, Don and Alyssa have continued looking for ways to serve clients better. Their recent office move within the same building is one example — a move designed to create a more private, comfortable experience for the people who come to them for help. It is a practical change, but it also reflects the heart of the business: keep improving, keep listening, and keep making the process easier for the community they serve.

The Waltons: Don, Alyssa, & Odin

For Don, Wayne County is more than a place to do business. It is home. It is where he and Alyssa were raised, where they chose to raise their family, and where they have been given the opportunity to grow a local business rooted in relationships. The support of the Wooster community has made that possible, and Don is deeply grateful. Through his relationships, he's been able to start another small business, Lucky Stone Logistics, delivering fresh potable water to Wayne County since 2023.

"Don Walton is definitely knowledgeable when it comes navigating my health insurance. I have several health concerns and a few expensive medications. Don showed me how to save on my meds and was able to lower my monthly payments."

Anita P

To every client who has trusted him with their health insurance needs, referred a friend, asked a question, or walked through the office door, Don offers a sincere thank you. He knows that trust is earned, and he is proud to continue earning it. Located at 127 E Liberty St, Suite 260 in downtown Wooster, HealthMarkets is by appointment only. Call Alyssa at (330) 439-4111 to get scheduled!
