GET TO KNOW YOUR DOCTOR

Featuring Plastic Surgeon
RAFAEL VILLALOBOS, D.O., F.A.C.O.S.

Dr. Rafael Villalobos is a plastic and reconstructive surgeon. He attended medical school at The West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine and completed his residency at The Ohio State University before opening his practice in Mansfield.

Mid Ohio Plastic Surgery

370 Cline Ave | Mansfield

419.756.1125

midhioplasticsurgery.com

WHY DID YOU BECOME A PLASTIC SURGEON?

My father was a surgeon. He died when I was 6 years old from liver failure. I always wanted to become a liver transplant surgeon as a child, but then I saw a show on craniofacial plastic reconstructive surgery. The plastic surgeons took care of a young boy who was born with his eyes too far apart. They were able to reflect his whole face forward and cut his eye sockets so that his eyes and his facial skeleton would be closer together at a normal distance. The transformation was incredible and that day I made it my life's goal to become a Plastic and Reconstructive surgeon. I'm blessed to be able to do this work as my vocation and avocation.

WHAT DO YOU LOVE MOST ABOUT YOUR JOB?

What I love most about my job is the transformation my patients experience. It is not only physical in the improvement of anatomy, but also functional in the ability to help the body perform better. It also has deep and lasting psychological benefits which I am able to see as my patients recover and heal from their surgery.

WHAT DO YOU DO IN YOUR SPARE TIME?

I love spending time with my wife and my grown kids. We love traveling and I especially love adventure. Just last March I was able to reach the summit of Mt. Kilimanjaro, which is the tallest mountain in Africa. My wife and I have become avid birders and we also enjoy cycling and camping. I enjoy cooking, golf, and skiing both on snow and water. I love God and enjoy sharing my faith with others.

The Whitaker-Myers Team and Dave Ramsey

Why Dave Ramsey?

Often times we are asked why the guy that is known for getting people out of debt, Dave Ramsey, is such a focal point of our financial planning and investment management, RIA (registered investment advisory) firm. "He's good at getting people out of debt but aren't you guys supposed to help people with investments?" But isn't that where it all starts? For most of us in America our most powerful wealth building tool is our income. There isn't a white knight coming to magically bestow you with millions of dollars. Thus, the more of your income that is committed to the bank(s) in the form of payments, the more your ability to build wealth and give, is limited. Therefore, when a client can barely save for retirement because they have a car payment, credit card payment and student loan payment, they better hope the government, which is well known for its ability to handle money (sarcasm noted), will take care of them in retirement. For us, it all starts with Proverbs 22:7, the borrower is slave to the lender.

Beyond that, our heart as advisors is much the same as the entire Ramsey Solutions team, which today stands at 1,200 employees strong. Most advisors, won't fool with you, if you don't have a minimum investment size, many for economic reasons, the more money you have to invest the more you can afford to pay your financial advisor and we have raged against that machine since our inception. We have proudly helped families, regardless of size, come to a point of debt freedom and wealth accumulation. Additionally, Dave's advice around avoiding some of the worst products in our industry such as whole life insurance and most annuity products, provides clients with a level of comfort, knowing our advice is consistent with what they'd hear Dave Ramsey, Chris Hogan, Rachel Cruze, Anthony O'Neal, Christy Wright, Ken Coleman or Dr. John DeLony discuss on their radio show or live events.

In 2010, one of our lead advisors, John-Stark Young, was invited to join Dave Ramsey on his SmartVestor Pro Advisory Council, which is a top group of advisors that Ramsey Solutions uses to provide strategic guidance and advice to their national network of financial advisors across the nation, that similar to the advisors of Whitaker-Myers Wealth Managers, believe and teach the principals that Dave and his team have taught millions of people over the last 25 years. To learn more about Whitaker-Myers Wealth Managers or The Seven Baby Steps, Dave Ramsey and his team have taught people for over 25 years, contact Whitaker-Myers Wealth Managers today.

The Fender Family

This year, Michael celebrates 20 years serving in the National Guard

When Michael Fender joined the military, he had no idea the principles and practices he'd learn would help him one day become a better financial advisor. He enlisted in the National Guard in May of 2001 and after basic training and a handful of other roles, he decided to take his military career to the next level and become a full time guardsman. In 2006, Michael was full time at the military base and he and his wife made the move to Mansfield. He transitioned into different roles over the years, but always served at the base in some capacity.

Michael has been to 47 countries through his military service. Pictured here at the South Pole.

A few years later, Michael took a leap of faith and opened a local small business. He applied his military training to help him run the business as he managed employees, accounts, finances, and other aspects of the company. During this time, Michael was still involved at the base and was balancing his time between work, the National Guard, and his wife and four kids. He made the decision to sell the business and focus on his family and what was next.

When he and his wife were out one evening, they ran into a friend celebrating a promotion with Edward Jones. Handpicked by his predecessor to take over the Edward Jones office, Michael then completed the necessary coursework and registrations before transitioning into the office. Unlike many financial advisors starting in the business straight out of college, Michael brings an array of life experience that can't be taught in business school. He explains, "When I'm flying in the military, before every flight we prepare. We have a meeting to create a comprehensive flight plan for all aspects of the journey. Once we're in flight, issues and situations arise. We have to adapt, make adjustments, and correct. There is no flight where every detail goes exactly as planned. You have to be prepared for obstacles, we plan ahead for them. The same can be said for finance. Numbers go up and down, it's knowing how to adapt to those changes and stay focused that helps you complete a mission or reach the goal."

Michael is a financial advisor with Edward Jones, bringing the tools and resources of an international investment firm to the individual and personal relationships he builds with his clients. Edward Jones has a proven process of matching appropriate investments to their clients. Michael embodies this by getting to know his clients personally and selecting the best fitting investments. He states, "It's about the bigger picture, I try to focus on the client and recommend what makes sense for each individual situation. My time in the military has taught me to be honest and up front, and sometimes my clients need that from me. When you're talking about someone's life savings, it's important they understand what's going on. At the end of the day I'm the same guy you see at school functions or around town. Our clients appreciate our down to earth approach."
