Functional Wellness

a: 313 E Liberty St. | Downtown Wooster
p: 330-646-3078

In the late 90s, Tanya Franks was working in the restaurant industry. One night, she went to bed like normal, but awoke the next morning unable to walk. She later found out that despite being an otherwise healthy, active young woman, she fractured her ankle in her sleep. She knew her body was trying to tell her something was wrong and she wouldn't rest until she had the whole picture. Her quest for answers led Tanya on a new path that would change not only her career, but her life for the better. As she embarked on a journey toward whole health and wellness, she studied how the human body functions and pursued massage therapy. She worked alongside her mother in law in 2001 and spent the next few years specializing in neuromuscular massage therapy. She furthered her education as a digestive health practitioner before completing formal training as a certified natural health practitioner (CNHP) in 2007. In 2011, Tanya had the opportunity to work with Dr. Howard Loomis. "Dr Loomis helps people address their root problems using food, enzymes, and nutrients along with physiology. Learning from him helped everything click, and that's when I knew I was finally in the right profession."

In 2019, Tanya became a board certified Functional Nutritionist. While Tanya is quick to mention she is not a doctor, she partners with licensed providers to ensure the needs of her clients are met. Dr. Lisa Malys is the Arukah offers several safe and effective physician-supervised services like IV Hydration Therapy and IM Vitamin Injections.

Medical Director at Arukah and has been practicing medicine for over 20 years. Before joining the team, Tammy Pratt was an Arukah regular. Now she is the head RN with over 35 years of experience.

Tanya has found she's not the only one to experience unexplained health issues. "We frequently see people at their wits end. They've tried everything, yet symptoms are not improving and no one is listening. Their body is telling them something is wrong, so we help translate." Tanya explains, "Our physician-supervised IV therapies offer many different infusions that help energize and rejuvenate the body including anti-aging, focus, detox, injury recovery, immune support, athletic performance, and more. IV infusions and IM (intramuscular) injections help reverse daily stress while rehydrating and replenishing the body of depleted vitamins, minerals and anti-oxidants."

Nutrition is another key element to holistic health. By offering tailored testing, Tanya and the team at Arukah identify the right nutritional makeup for each individual and ensure nutrients consumed are absorbed correctly. "We look at how your body is designed to function and nourish it with specific foods, enzymes, and supplements according to your specific needs. We also offer food sensitivity, heavy metal, and micro-nutrient testing along with our other functional nutrition services." Beyond nutrition and medically supervised treatments, Arukah Functional Wellness offers massage therapy, infrared light therapies, and thermography as well as a retail store filled with vitamins, herbs, probiotics, and enzymes.

Tanya took a huge leap of faith when she opened the wellness center and wanted the name to mean something. Arukah is a Hebrew word which means touched by God and completely healed, body, soul, spirit. Tanya explains, "We help people heal. I am not a doctor, but I am an expert at utilizing nutrition to solve health puzzles. I see too many people think they are just "getting older" or experience issues they "just have to live with". That's simply not always true. There's usually something to be done and ways we can help."

The journey towards wellness begins with a single step, and at Arukah the first step is simple. "We start with a conversation, and you do most of the talking," Tanya explains. "You know your body; you know when something is off. We listen and ask questions to clarify."

"My wife insisted I see Tanya at Arukah to help with complications to my Crohn's Disease. After a brief examination and some tests, we made some immediate changes to my lifestyle. I quickly noticed changes for the better; less pain, increased energy, better digestion. In a course of 10 months, I have achieved a healthy body weight, better overall skin condition, and a greatly improved digestive tract. I look forward to continued improvements!"

Nick F.

Next comes a deep dive into individual health. This may include bloodwork, urinalysis and other tests to determine how the body's systems are functioning. For more information, visit them at online at arukah44691.com or call 330-464-3078 to schedule your free consultation.

Unused 529 Plan To Roth IRA

There were many changes to investing laws in the omnibus spending bill passed on December 29, 2022, that included the Secure Act 2.0. One of the most significant changes to educational investment accounts was passed for 529 accounts. Starting in 2024, account holders who have had a 529 with leftover or unused funds can roll over funds from their 529 to a Roth IRA.

Qualifications and Considerations

If you're asking yourself if this is something to pursue when investing in a 529 for your children, below outlines the areas to review to help you feel more confident.

- The account must be set up for at least 15 years before you can utilize this feature. If you're looking at setting up an account for your kids and you don't do it until ten years old or later, the child will not be able to take advantage of this until their mid-to-late 20s. It has not been determined if you change the beneficiary of the 529 if that resets the 15-year clock.
- There is a lifetime cap of $35,000 per person/account owner. So intentionally overfunding a 529 is limited. If there are leftover funds after overfunding, you can always transfer the account to another family member.
- The 529 beneficiary must have earned income to be eligible to roll over funds from a 529 to a Roth IRA. This is one of several qualifications needing to be clarified in the bill.
- Rollovers are subject to the annual Roth IRA contribution limits (less if you've made direct contributions).
Example: You made a $1,000 contribution in 2024. The Roth IRA maximum is $6,500; you would only be able to roll over $5,500, given that you meet the other qualifications.
- You cannot transfer contributions and earnings made in the last five years.
- There are no income limits on completing the rollover like there are for Roth IRA contributions.

Choosing the Right School

School choice matters even if you have the funds to cover the total cost of education. Rather than choosing a public school at $25,000 per year for a 4-year undergraduate degree and having to come out of pocket an additional $40,000, a family could consider community college. If community college costs $10,000 annually for four years and you have $60,000 in your 529, you could roll over the remaining $20,000 every year until exhausted into the beneficiary's IRA. This can put even more importance on the school choice for parents and their children.

Whether this is something you should take advantage of depends on your personal situation. If you are looking for guidance around education planning and saving for yourself or your children, set up a meeting today with your Whitaker-Myers advisor to help you achieve your financial goals and objectives.

WHAT TYPE OF MEDICARE PLAN DO I HAVE?

Original Medicare vs Medicare Advantage

Original Medicare means that hospital and medical coverage are managed by the federal government. A Medicare Advantage Plan (also called Part C) means a private insurance company manages hospital and medical coverage.

How do I know if I am enrolled in Original Medicare or a Medicare Advantage Plan?

Typically, if you use your red, white, and blue Medicare card to receive most services, you are using Original Medicare. If you are using a card with a private insurer's name on it in place of (and not in conjunction with) your red, white, and blue Medicare card, you may be enrolled in a Medicare Advantage Plan.

Not connected with or endorsed by any government or Federal Medicare Program. We do not offer every plan available in your area. Any information we provide is limited to those plans we do offer in your area. Please contact Medicare.gov or 1-800-Medicare to get information on all of your options.
